

ABSTRACT

A server for processing an electronic message is provided that includes:

(a) an input operable to a message inputted by a user, the message comprising one or more recipients, and a restriction identifier for the message, the restriction identifier identifying a subset of recipients from among a set of recipients to receive the message; and

5 (b) when a restriction identifier is received, a processor operable to tag the message with the restriction identifier.